RACIALIZED ABLEISM:
Understanding the Intersections of
Structural Racism and Ableism in Society

ChrisTiana ObeySumner, Epiphanies
of Equity LLC

This training will explore the varied ways ableism and racism intersect in our understanding, relating, and constructing of others. Racialized Ableism is a term that describes the compounded impact of racism and ableism within one experience. The approach will be grounded in a disability justice, Black Liberation, and Antiracism principles as defined by Tema Okun's "Divorcing white supremacy" framework.

Participants will leave with a greater awareness and understanding of the intersections, as well as some takeaway strategies for individual and professional change management.
